REMEMBER

Your personal brand is your benchmark – my personal brand was formed with my non-negotiable values of passion, integrity and delivery. I believe in the law of attraction – like attracts like – so understanding your values and your personal brand is a FIRST STOP. Believe in yourself and don't compare yourself to others. Why? Because each of us has something unique to offer, the trick is to align with like-minded people. Start a conversation with who you want to meet. Good starters are 'I haven't seen you for some time and love to reconnect over a coffee.' 'I love what your creating and if your free for a coffee I would love to learn more and connect personally'. 'I thought I would share this (career highlight) as you were part of the journey to get me to where I am today. Love to take you for a coffee and celebrate'.
